Almo Revamps Mobile Electronics Line Card

Almo adds new Car A/V brands Jensen Mobile and Motorola to capture new markets and product categories.

Philadelphia, PA –May 7, 2009: Almo Corporation today announced a revamp of their mobile electronics line card including new distribution partnerships with Jensen Mobile and Motorola. With the addition of these two industry-leading brands, Almo's extensive lineup of Mobile Electronics now encompasses the world's leading car A/V brands – Pioneer, Audiovox, Jensen, Garmin, Motorola, SPL and Fahrenheit.

"As the country's largest distributor in this sector, we've seen notable change in the car A/V market as traditional car audio has transitioned to connected vehicle entertainment and communication systems," said Warren Chaiken, Almo President and COO. "To ensure the health of our dealers and the 12-volt channel, we've recharged our product offering and are pleased to welcome industry-leaders Jensen and Motorola to the Almo family of brands. With this new product lineup, Almo dealers can reach out to new customers by adding new product categories that meet the needs of today's connected traveler."

Jensen Mobile: From its humble beginnings as the inventor of the loudspeaker in 1915, Jensen Mobile has pioneered audio technology throughout the past Century and today is a recognized leader in mobile electronics, holding the number one market share in mobile multimedia systems. Jensen Multimedia Systems in-dash solutions offer the connectivity, features, capabilities and proven technology that meet the needs of today's discerning car owner. Bluetooth, iPod music, CDs, DVDs, MP3s or WMA files play through one very cool 7 inch touch-screen-enabled display on the new VM9312HD Multimedia System. Thanks to a high-resolution video screen, powerful built-in amplifiers and magnificent sound engineering, whatever you pop into or plug into this versatile system will look and sound great. Which is exactly what you'd expect from Jensen.

Jensen Mobile also includes CD headunits, speakers, subwoofers, AMPS and navigation systems for any vehicle. Almo will be carrying a selection of Jensen's top sellers from their 08/09 product offering.

Motorola: Motorola is known around the world for innovation in communications and is focused on advancing the way the world connects. Consumers today are demanding rich mobile communication and MOTONAV TN30 is an ultra-durable Bluetooth® enabled, portable GPS navigation system that combines the confidence of finding destinations with a speaker for hands-free cell phone connectivity on the road. Motorola's recently released MOTONAV Series of GPS Navigation Systems are ultra-durable, easy-to-use and priced to sell.

Almo will be carrying Motorola's GPS products and Bluetooth headsets for their 12-volt dealers as well as wired and wireless stereo headphones, portable iPod/MP3 speaker systems and a selection of accessories for their consumer electronic dealers.

Dealers interested in Jensen and Motorola models available from Almo may visit www.almo.com or contact their sales representative.
